Hot off the red carpet, these stars came out to celebrate their new films

New Bond girl Olga Kurylenko dazzled onlookers at the world premiere of Quantum of Solace.

Amy Adams attended the premiere for her movie Doubt in a long black lace dress.

James Franco took a break from his film studies to attend the Hollywood Film Fest. Franco stars in the upcoming Milk, costarring Sean Penn, which is about a gay rights activist and politician who becomes the first openly gay man to be elected to public office in America.

Hot young couple Vanessa Hudgens and Zac Efron heated things up at the Mexico premiere of High School Musical 3.

The Quantum of Solace London premiere got the royal treatment when Prince William and Prince Harry walked the red carpet.

Jaime King gets a special kiss from her beau while at the Hollywood Film Festival. King is set to appear next in The Spirit.

Jessica Biel shone in a glittering silver dress at the premiere of her film Easy Virtue in which she plays an American woman who marries into a disapproving British family.

Proving they're still a hot couple in Hollywood, Diane Lane and Josh Brolin stuck close to each other while at the Hollywood Film Fest.

With his lady love by his side, Daniel Craig looked every bit as dashing as James Bond while attending the Berlin premiere of Quantum of Solace.

Quantum of Solace

Daniel Craig solidifies his 007 status

NOVEMBER 14

In Quantum of Solace, Bond goes on an explosive mission to seek out the underground organization that blackmailed Vesper. As he gets closer to finding the man responsible, Bond must keep one step ahead of the CIA, the terrorists and even M, to unravel a sinister plan. Tribute's Bonnie Laufer-Krebs and Toni-Marie Ippolito talked to Daniel Craig, Olga Kurylenko and director Marc Forster about what it was like to bring 007 back to the big screen.

Laufer-Krebs: Do you still feel pressure to play Bond?

Craig: Yeah, and I think there should be pressure there because there's a lot of money being spent and you've kind of got to get it right. But with the success of Casino Royale we had somewhere to go and had something behind us that was successful so that we could match it or better it.

Laufer-Krebs: This is a more dramatic Bond. Was that important for you to bring this time?

Craig: In making a sequel we all agreed that we needed to tie up loose ends and that sort of journey needed to be finished, and I think we've done it incredibly successfully.

Laufer-Krebs: Olga's Bond girl really gave you a run for your life!

Craig: Yes, she was great. Her story ties in with Bond in that she's on this revenge mission and it was important that she was strong and that they could have respect for one another. They don't consummate their relationship in this because that's not the deal. Olga carries this mystery and strength about her that was important for the role.

Ippolito: Camille is a different kind of Bond girl. How would you describe her?

Kurylenko: She is an independent and strong woman. She has her own mission, and her motivation is revenge. She exists as a separate character from Bond because she has her own story and she is very interesting and different from other Bond girls because she doesn't need Bond to exist even though he crosses her path.

Ippolito: What was it like working with Daniel? Did he motivate you?

Kurylenko: He's such an amazing actor. He trained so much and constantly worked on his character to make it better and better. He tried to do all these stunts by himself and that's what motivated me to do the same thing. Some of the scenes were really hard but he told me when you watch the movie you're going to be so happy you did it. I watched it and it was incredible to see what I did.

Ippolito: Why do you think Daniel makes an excellent Bond?

Kurylenko: His Bond is really believable. We can believe that he can really fight and kick ass because he has a strong body. The other Bonds were a little more delicate and he's just a tough cookie.

Ippolito: This movie is so action-packed! Do the expectations get higher for every Bond film, especially for you directing a sequel?

Forster: I had a huge amount of pressure on this one! After Casino Royale, which was the most successful Bond film ever, the expectations were pretty high. I was thinking, "Oh my God, there were 21 Bond films before this and they were all successful," and I thought, "What am I going to do if I fail?" Even now, when it's finished I think, "Is it going to go the way you hope it will?"

Ippolito: Every scene in this film is done on a grand scale.

Forster: That was the approach for me, in that if I'm making a Bond film it has to be on a grand scale and that the locations are sort of characters themselves. I thought in all the Bond films you identify with all these iconic locations, that it was really important to show some of them and capture them.

Ippolito: Why do you think Daniel works so well as James Bond?

Forster: Obviously he has this incredible sex appeal and an interesting look, but he also humanized Bond. He brought Bond into a completely human being, a three-dimensional character that we can all relate to.

Kristen Stewart and Robert Pattinson take on the big-screen version of the bestselling book series Twilight

November 21

MATTERS of the heart are never easy, but for Bella Swan, it's downright lethal. Her love story isn't your average one. Sure, Edward Cullen is perfect in every sense. He's charming, incredibly intelligent and so handsome that no girl is able to resist touching his beautiful porcelain-like skin. There's only one problem: Edward is not human. He's a vampire.

Based on the bestselling novels by Stephenie Meyer (there are four books in the series, including New Moon, Eclipse and Breaking Dawn), Twilight follows the life of an average 17-year-old teenage girl who moves from sunny Arizona to live with her father in the gloomy, rainy town of Forks, Washington. Bella not only has the burden of meeting new friends at her high school, she also unknowingly falls in love with a vampire. And fans of the series, of all ages, can't seem to get enough. In fact, the anticipation for the big-screen version—directed by Catherine Hardwicke (Thirteen)—is fierce.

The appeal for actress Kristen Stewart (Into the Wild) to play Bella was not just in the hype, but in who the character was. "I could relate to her because she's just a very straight-up, good-natured girl who found herself in an insane position," Stewart told Premiere.com. "[She's] seemingly logical, and then all of a sudden [is] just swept away by something more powerful than her. Every girl wants to lose herself, and Bella started out hard and just lost it, and that's what I really loved about it."

In the beginning, Bella seems to think Edward (Robert Pattinson, Harry Potter) dislikes her. Certainly he and his siblings, Alice (played by Ashley Greene), Emmett (Kellan Lutz), Rosalie (Nikki Reed) and Jasper (Jackson Rathbone), keep their distance from everyone. But the Cullens are not your average vampires. Following a strict code imposed by the head of their family, Carlisle (Peter Facinelli), who is also a doctor at the local hospital, and mother Esme (Elizabeth Reaser), do not kill humans but rather feed on animals for their blood—unlike the baddies James (Cam Gigandet) and Victoria (played by Canadian actress Rachelle Lefevre) who come to town to shake up the town's human blood supply. As Bella enters their circle, it's hard for them not to be tempted by her sweet blood, especially for Edward when in intimate situations with Bella.

"The more Bella says, 'I'm not scared of you,' the more I believe it myself and I kind of forget that I am a vampire and what my actual urges are," Pattinson told movies.about.com. "I try and kiss her and obviously it ends up being a nightmare. She has a hormonal rush and I have a kind of like, I want to kill you rush. It ends up being quite sexy, though, in a weird sort of way. But I don't know. It's kind of like you're at a point where you want to do everything and kill at the same time."

For loyal book fans, Meyer assures the movie and the cast will live up to the hype. "The goal was to make it as close to the book as possible, given the time constraints of the film," Meyer said. "I also think Kristen is a really great actress. When they got her in hair and makeup, Kristen really got it down. Plus, I really love her voice. I just think she has Bella's voice."

Frost/Nixon

DECEMBER 5

Other than perhaps Abe Lincoln, no other American president has been studied as much in film as Richard Nixon.

Based on a popular play of the same name, Frost/Nixon is the latest movie to shine its spotlight on the former commander-in-chief, and specifically, a series of famous 1977 interviews he granted to journalist David Frost. What made the interviews so famous, you ask? Well, they publicly revealed the full extent of Nixon's involvement in the Watergate scandal, which had brought his presidency to an early end three years earlier.

"It's an extraordinary moment in time, really, the Frost/Nixon interviews, because it's kind of (like) the world changed really at that point," admitted Oscar-nominated actor Michael Sheen (The Queen) to about.com, adding that from that period on, politicians realized their popularity hinged on "how they come across in the media."

In 1964, at St. Nicholas in the Bronx, a vibrant, charismatic priest, Father Flynn (Hoffman), is trying to upend the school's strict customs, which have long been fiercely guarded by Sister Aloysius Beauvier (Streep), who is the iron-gloved principal who believes in the power of fear and discipline. But when Sister James (Adams) shares with Sister Aloysius her guilt-inducing suspicion that Father Flynn is paying too much personal attention to a boy, it sets her off on a personal crusade to unearth the truth and to expunge Flynn from the school.

Doubt

Gran Torino

With the loss of Paul Newman a few weeks ago, Clint Eastwood just may be one of the last actor/directors left to carry the torch for classic Hollywood stars with still-viable careers. Not only is Eastwood not slowing down at the age of 78, he seems to be speeding up.

Coming straight from directing the true-life tragedy film Changeling (with Angelina Jolie), Eastwood directs and stars in Gran Torino, in which he plays a Korean War vet who confronts his own intolerance. "I'm a weirdo in it. I play a real racist," Eastwood recently told USA Today. "[He] looks down on Asian people and lumps everybody together. But finally they befriend him in his time of need because he has no relationship with his family."

Eastwood's successful filmmaking career has seen its share of Oscar buzz, and Gran Torino is no exception. But Eastwood remains modest and merely shrugs off the hype, pointing out with typical directness, "Nobody has seen it (yet)." Good point. But in Eastwood's capable hands, any film is a potential Oscar winner.

Return of the funnyman

Jim Carrey gets you high on laughter in Yes Man

December 19

HOW would your life be different if you said “yes” when you would usually say “no?” Jim Carrey’s character Carl Allen is a man who resolves to do just that in his new comedy Yes Man.

Based on the true experiences of British comedian Danny Wallace, Yes Man shows how Carl’s life becomes a lot more interesting when he accepts every invitation, proposal and suggestion that he encounters. He also ends up getting into a boatload of mischief. At one point, Carl has his first memorable encounter with the energy drink Red Bull (actually, he drinks so much of it that if they had a breathalyzer test for caffeine, he would have blown well over the legal limit). In true Carrey fashion, he acts like a complete nut for much of the film, but still manages to reveal the heart of his character. It’s a return to form for the 46-year-old Canadian comedian, with echoes of the massive 1997 hit, Liar Liar.

Since his breakout with Ace Ventura: Pet Detective 14 years ago, Carrey has seen phenomenal success and huge paydays. But as he told 60 Minutes several months ago, his unique comic craziness comes from a much darker place. “Desperation,” Carrey said. “I had a sick mom, man. I wanted to make her feel better... I used to go in [her bedroom] and do impressions of praying mantises, and weird things, and whatever. I’d bounce off the walls and throw myself down the stairs to make her feel better.”

In that interview, Carrey also admitted to battling depression. Yet these days, he seems to be in a much better place. In interviews, he comes across as a man at peace with himself, and his relationship with actress Jenny McCarthy has had a profound impact on him. His affection for McCarthy is obvious and his dedication to standing with her in her crusade on autism issues seems to have given him strength. (McCarthy’s six-year-old son, Evan, is autistic.)

Co-starring in Yes Man is Zooey Deschanel (Elf), Bradley Cooper (Wedding Crashers), Terrence Stamp (Get Smart) and Danny Masterson (That ’70s Show).

If you're suffering from movie comic withdrawal, you can put an end to your symptoms as Will Eisner's The Spirit swooshes onto the big screen this holiday season. And who better to make it all the more dark and exciting than director Frank Miller (Sin City, 300)?

The story follows a former rookie cop, Denny Colt, who returns mysteriously from the dead as The Spirit (Gabriel Macht), to fight crime from the shadows of Central City. "Denny was an orphan who grew up on the streets. He had a desire to be a cop when he was a kid. So, when he grew up, he was passionate about fulfilling his dream," Macht said of his character at Comic-Con. "Once he's the Spirit, he's a man trying to figure himself out. He knows he loves the ladies, equal to loving truth, justice and the American way.”

Jackson as the Octopus

His archenemy, The Octopus (Jackson), has a different mission. With an evil genius-type plan, Octopus plans to wipe out Spirit’s beloved city as he pursues his own version of immortality. “It’s sort of Wile E. Coyote with real people,” Jackson told MTV. “We hit each other with big things [and] we’re both kind of indestructible, so it’s funny in that way. We get shot up, we get stabbed up, and we just don’t die.”

As Macht’s Spirit tracks the cold-hearted killer Octopus from Central City’s rundown warehouses to the damp catacombs to the windswept waterfront, he’s also forced to deal with a few beautiful women who either want to seduce, love or kill our masked crusader. What’s an action hero to do? “All of the actresses have been great,” Macht says. “Scarlett, Eva, they’re just amazing...so tough and sexy.”

Of course these sexy women have their own agenda, making things more complicated for the Spirit. Eva Mendes plays Sand Saref, the jewel thief with dangerous curves. “I’ve never actually played, like, a real femme fatale,” admitted Mendes during Comic-Con. “And this woman is just, you know, she is just...she would eat you for breakfast!” This will also be the first time Mendes shows a little back skin in a film. “I’m excited to see what happens with this scene. Well, I don’t think it’s ‘excited.’ I’m actually nervous,” Mendes told The Daily Record. “I think they have a butt shot of me. I’m not sure how it ended up.”

Eva Mendes stars as Sand Saref who first appeared in the comics in 1950. She is the Spirit’s childhood sweetheart who eventually turns to crime

Playing the other femme fatale is Scarlett Johansson, who is Silken Floss, a frigid, punk secretary to the Octopus. “I loved playing such a big character,” Johansson has said. “The dialogue is so black and white. As an actor it’s nice to play all of these different things. If I was just doing these greenscreen movies or these independent movies, there’d just be no purpose to it.” Adds Deborah Del Prete, the film’s producer, “When Frank met with Scarlett he said, ‘I know what I want to do with this role. I have an idea for Silken Floss; I want to take her and make her a bigger character and Scarlett Johansson is the person who can do that.’ So Floss was pretty much custom to her and I think people will find this is a different side of Scarlett. She is very funny, very sexy and very different than we’ve seen her in other movies.”

—Toni-Marie Ippolito

Gabriel Macht plays the Spirit. The comic premiered in 1940 as a 16-page, tabloid-sized, newsprint comic book sold in newspaper.

YOU asked

Separation and divorce are very common—almost half of all marriages break up. But even if you know lots of people whose parents are divorced it's still upsetting if it happens to your family.

Divorce and your feelings

Divorce causes so many changes in a family. Some of these changes can make you feel really sad. Here are some of the things you may feel sad about:

- you may miss the times your family had together or the times your family won't have in the future (e.g. you probably won't have family holidays or celebrations together)
- you may miss seeing both of your parents every day
- you may miss your friends, neighbourhood, house or school if you have to move.

Divorce can make you really angry. Here are just some of the reasons you may feel mad:

- you may be mad at your parents for breaking up your family
- you may be mad at your parents for not trying hard enough to save their marriage
- you may be mad about having to choose which parent you live with

You might find that you are angrier with one parent than the other if you feel that parent is more to blame for the divorce. It's normal to feel angry and resentful. After all, you probably didn't ask for any of the big changes that will happen in your life as a result of the divorce.

Divorce can make you feel worried for a lot of reasons. Here are just some of the things you may worry about:

- how much your life is going to change
- how you will choose which parent to live with
- how you will cope with moving, starting a new school or making new friends
- if your family will have enough money
- that other people in your family (e.g. a brother or sister or your parents) are really upset

What you can do

A lot of kids feel guilty because they think that they are to blame for their parents' divorce. You may find yourself thinking things like: "If only I didn't argue with them they would still be together!" Kids don't cause their parents to divorce. Parents divorce because of problems with their relationship.

You may feel relieved if your parents are divorcing, especially if they fought all the time. Your parents may actually feel happier and get along better if they are living apart. You probably just realize that sometimes a divorce can make everyone's lives more peaceful.

Things you can do:

It's hard on your whole family if your parents break up. Your parents will probably make most of the big decisions about how your lives are going to change, but they may want your input. Try to speak with them about your worries and about how you can work together to make things as easy as possible. You may also want to:

- write (a journal, poetry, letters to your parents)
- do something artistic (paint, draw, sculpt)
- sing, dance, make music
- get active (play basketball, swim, run, bike—anything)
- talk to other kids whose parents have divorced
- talk to someone you trust (a teacher, school counselor or another family member)

If your parents share custody you may enjoy setting up a room for yourself in each of your parents' homes. Many families develop new rituals around holidays that can be fun and different from what you are used to. You may even get to celebrate special occasions twice! Of course this doesn't take away the sadness of divorce but it does make it easier to cope with.

Paris Inco

She's an icon—there's nobody quite like Paris Hilton. But there's more to her than meets the eye. Co-starring in the tragic rock opera Repo! The Genetic Opera, the media star talks exclusively about acting, family hopes and her empire.

—By Sam McFarlane

Are you happier now at this point in your life than you have been in the past?

HILTON: Yeah, I'm really in love. I'm really happy. Everything's going so well. I just really feel like I've grown up a lot this year, and I know what I want to do with my life. It's just great to be in such an amazing relationship with someone who supports and loves me, and treats me like a princess. That really helps, when you just have someone like that, to be by your side.

Do you think you'll have time for a genuine sort of personal life, which is not going to be in the forefront of the media? Do you want to settle down?

HILTON: Yeah. I'm in one of the best relationships I've been in my life. I'm really happy. I'd love to have a family one day, and my own children. I have my private life as well. It's why I moved into a gated community. Now it's a little bit more private than it used to be.

Hilton and Madden

Do you think it's hard for you to meet somebody who can see you for what you are, as opposed to what the image is?

HILTON: Yeah. Every time I meet someone, they're so surprised. If someone doesn't know me, they'll meet me and just be like, "Oh my God, you're so different than I thought you'd be. And you're so down to earth and sweet and real." And people, when they know me, just realize that I'm a really good person.

How hard is it to balance a music career with an acting career?

HILTON: It's so much fun for me. I'm doing what I love to do. I live every day as if it's my last, and just live life to the fullest. And with my brand, I can basically do whatever I want. And I always try to, no matter where I go, incorporate everything together, so if I have to promote a movie or my line or something, it's just all incorporated together. I can do it all at once.

What is your ultimate ambition? If you had one thing that you could do that would be the be-all and end-all, professionally or personally, what would it be?

HILTON: Just sort of continue doing my work, and expanding my empire, and eventually opening my own hotel chains, casinos and nightclubs. And then being a great mom, and having beautiful children.

How challenging has it been for you, for producers to see you as something other than the blonde or the icon that we associate you with?

HILTON: I think every day I do new things that surprise people and just continue expanding my brand. I've been in this business for over ten years now and I think every day people see a new side to me and that I'm a lot smarter than most people think.

What would you like to say to set the record straight about what people think of you?

HILTON: I just think there are a lot of misconceptions. A lot of people think I don't work and I just get money from my family and that I don't do anything. But, really, I'm running a huge empire. I have my album coming out. I have my own clothing line, shoes, make-up, lingerie, purses and hair extensions. I'm running a huge business that's world-wide, and every day I'm traveling the world, going to different countries and promoting my brand. And it's become a huge brand.

Some people say that I'm not smart, and they kind of just judge me based on The Simple Life, which is a character I was playing. That's not really who I am. I'm not a spoiled person. I'm not a bad person. I'm a sweet girl with a big heart, I care about people and I do a lot of charity work, so it hurts my feelings when people are mean, and want to say nasty things.

How does your new album that's coming out reflect who you are at the moment?

HILTON: Well, there are a lot of songs on there. Some of the songs are actually on FlaghouseMedia.com as well. I have a song called "Jailhouse Baby." The song is about my life, and things that have happened. And I wrote every song on it, so it was a lot of fun just to show my fans and everyone, through music, about my life.

What was the particular attraction for you taking on the role of this damaged character in the upcoming Repo! The Genetic Opera?

HILTON: Just being offered this role, it is completely different than anything I've been offered. I'm always offered another blonde version of myself and when I read the script, I just thought it was so unique and different, and I love that we can incorporate music in it as well. And I love Darren Lynn Bousman from all the Saw films. I'm a huge fan of him as a director. So I just thought it was a perfect movie for me to do, to show that I can do other things than playing a blonde.

I understand Repo! may end up being part of a trilogy. Do you hope to be part of the second two movies?

HILTON: Yeah, definitely. The ending of the movie, well, you'll see what happens with my character. I can't really tell, because it's a surprise. But they've told me they definitely want me in the sequels if they do them.

Do you have another acting gig that you're looking for, that you hope to be doing soon?

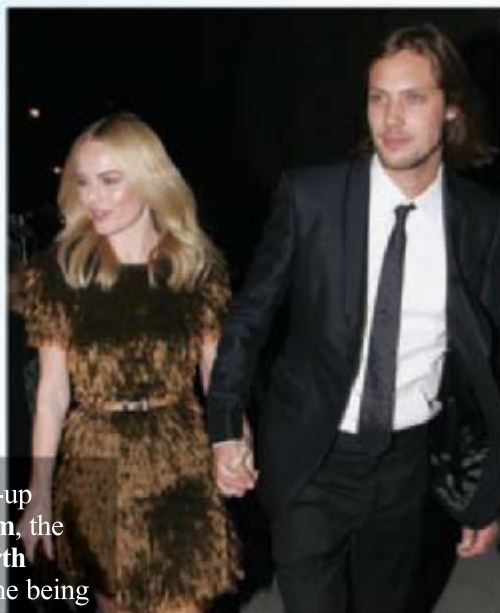

HILTON: Well, I just got back from London. I was shooting Paris Hilton's My British Best Friend and I'm going to be doing other ones across the country. I have a new show which is a hybrid reality show based on my life, with Ryan Seacrest producing it. And I'm doing another film called Pedal to the Metal, which is a comedy where I play a rock star.

HOT COUPLES!

Whoever coined the term “all work and no play” didn’t seem to have much fun. Most of these stars met while working on movies together and are definitely setting Hollywood on fire.

Rachel Bilson and Hayden Christensen met in 2007 while filming Jumpers. Since then, they’ve been seen around town feeding each other and escaping for some one-on-one time to romantic destinations such as Rome.

After her sad break-up with Orlando Bloom, the lovely Kate Bosworth didn’t waste any time being single. Bosworth soon met British model James Rousseau and the two have been fashion staples at every Hollywood soiree.

The relationship between Miley Cyrus, 16, and model Justin Gaston, 20, has sparked some controversy because of their age difference. But Cyrus is keeping mum about the couple’s official status.

“I haven’t really been answering the question much just because we’re just really happy with everything,” Cyrus told Ryan Seacrest. “After my last two years, there’s been a lot of things that have happened, so I’ve learned not to judge anyone and go into our friendship with an open mind and not really worry about the age or anything. Our families are like, ‘Whatever happens, happens...If he’s nothing but a really good friend, that’s awesome.’”

They've recently squashed reports that they're engaged, but Hilary Duff and New York Islanders centre Mike Comrie are still going strong. After dating for more than a year, the two are so supportive of each other that they attend and participate in charity events together.

Call it art imitating life. Blake Lively and Penn Badgley went public with their romance last May when photographers caught them smooching while on vacation in Mexico. The famous Gossip Girl stars met while working together on the show and have been a hot item ever since!

Zac Efron and Vanessa Hudgens are the picture-perfect couple. Their on-screen and off-screen relationship has been going on for a few years now, since their High School Musical days, and the pair show no signs of slowing down.

Keira Knightley has had her share of beaux but she and her current man, actor Rupert Friend, hit it off after they met on the set of Pride & Prejudice. From hot vacations to the Bahamas to walking around getting groceries in London, these two seem like the real deal.

HORROR FRIDAY JANUARY 16

Cast: Jensen Ackles, Jaime King, Kerr Smith, Kevin Tighe, Marc Macaulay

Tom (Ackles) returns on the tenth anniversary of the Valentine's night massacre that claimed the life of 22 people in his hometown. Instead of a homecoming, Tom finds himself suspected of committing the murders and it seems like his old flame (King) is the only one who believes he's innocent.

Inkheart

FANTASY JANUARY 23

Cast: Brendan Fraser, Helen Mirren, Paul Bettany, Eliza Bennett

Meggie's (Bennett) father (Fraser) has a secret ability to bring characters from books to life when he reads them aloud. But when a power-hungry villain from a rare children's fable kidnaps Meggie's father to bring others out of the boundaries of fiction, she and a group of friends both real and magic embark on the kind of adventure she has only read about in books to save him and set things right. Based on the book by Cornelia Funke.

Cause Celeb

You may see their pictures plastered across the tabloids and looking glamorous on the big screen, but these Hollywood celebs use their star power for good causes and charities.

Natalie Portman

Natalie Portman was recently named the first Ambassador of Hope for FINCA International, an organization that promotes microlending to empower women in poor countries by helping them start their own businesses.

Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie

Brad Pitt is the design jury chairman for Global Green's Sustainable Design Competition. Pitt and partner Angelina Jolie, who is a UN Goodwill Ambassador, also founded the Jolie-Pitt Foundation.

George Clooney

George Clooney is a member of the Board of Trustees of United Way, UN Messenger of Peace and the co-founder of Not On Our Watch. He dedicates much of his time and energy in fighting to stop the atrocities occurring in Darfur.

Scarlett Johansson

Scarlett Johansson has taken part in Oxfam, on behalf of which she traveled to India and Sri Lanka where she got involved in healthcare projects and domestic violence projects. She has said: "It's amazing to come home when you see people living in poverty. On one hand you're thinking, my celebrity life is so surreal, but it's my work and it helps me bring awareness to Oxfam." Johansson also visited Rwanda in September to increase awareness of AIDS sufferers in African nations.

Leonardo DiCaprio

Leonardo DiCaprio actively fosters awareness of environmental issues through his foundation, which works with such organizations as the Natural Resources Defense Council, Global Green USA, the International Fund For Animal Welfare, and National Geographic Kids. The Leonardo DiCaprio Foundation places particular emphasis on the issues of global warming, alternative and renewable energy sources, and the preservation of the planet's biodiversity.

Matt Damon

Matt founded H2O Africa, to help raise awareness of the water crisis in Africa, and plays an active role in the OneXOne charity, which strives to preserve and improve the lives of children in Canada and around the world.

Drew Barrymore

Actress Drew Barrymore has been named an Ambassador Against Hunger for the World Food Programme. Barrymore has said that for just pennies a day a child can receive the nutrition necessary to boost academic performance. "Feeding a child at school is such a simple thing, but it works miracles. I've seen it with my own eyes," she said.

PETA

People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals strives to protect the rights of animals. PETA has received support from many celebrities, including Alec Baldwin, Carrie Underwood, Casey Affleck, Charlize Theron, Demi Moore, Dita Von Teese, Eva Mendes, Forest Whitaker, Jessica Biel, Joaquin Phoenix, Keanu Reeves, Kim Basinger, Kristen Bell, Natalie Portman and Pamela Anderson.

Saving Sharks

In his documentary Sharkwater, Rob Stewart reveals the plight of sharks, whose numbers are steadily diminishing due to poaching, and the effect it has on our environment. Hayden Panettiere and Smallville's Laura Vandervoort support the cause. For more info, go to sharkwater.com.

Paris Hilton has created quite the resume for herself in her 27 years. The leggy blonde has achieved entrepreneur status with a successful fragrance line, a best-selling book, a pop album, a copyrighted phrase (“that’s hot!”), two hit television series, starring movie roles and on top of it all has managed to snag some street cred by landing herself in jail. Through it all, this busy party girl still manages to sneak in time to cavort with a long list of La-La Land’s leading men from Colin Farrell to Leonardo DiCaprio to Adrian Grenier to current flame Benji Madden—all of whom are unable to resist her alluring charm. With a surplus of well-documented love affairs, escapades and drama to rival that of any soap opera, Hilton’s next venture has her starring in a real opera as Amber Sweet in Repo! The Genetic Opera. The horror musical has the hotel heiress playing a plastic surgery-addicted, spoiled rich girl who is obsessed with her looks. Is that life imitating art or art imitating life?

1 Put two of the busiest daters in Hollywood in the same vicinity and a hookup is inevitable. It's no wonder when COLIN FARRELL and Hilton bumped into each other that the two couldn't help but test out their well-practised bedroom moves on each other.

2 It seemed like Ms. Hilton finally put her wild ways aside when she fell for BENJI MADDEN, the twin brother of her BFF's (Nicole Richie) boyfriend. But their eighth-month romance is rumored to be on the rocks after the Good Charlotte rocker was recently spotted getting a little too up-close-and-personal with his former fiancé Sophie Monk.

3 Newly single LEONARDO DICAPRIO has a hookup list that rivals the best of the Hollywood Casanovas. From supermodels to actresses to rock stars, this suave playboy moved on to the heiress just after the Hilton and Rick Solomon sex tape scandal surfaced. The short-lived fling was enough to send DiCaprio running back to supermodels.

4 ADRIAN GRENIER is infatuated with all that is Hilton—so much so that the Entourage star interviewed the paparazzi magnet at her Malibu digs for his new documentary about celebrities and the media. Rumor has it Grenier stayed at her beach house well after the interview was over.

5 Shaggy-haired illusionist CRISS ANGEL put his magic skills to the test when he seduced Hilton after the two hit it off at the Las Vegas hot spot Jet. Hilton isn't the first beautiful blonde this Mindfreak star has managed to snag—Cameron Diaz, Britney Spears and Pam Anderson have all fallen for Angel's magical hands.

6 Something must be in the air in Las Vegas. Not only did Hilton hook up with Criss Angel in Sin City, but she also scored with tennis cutie ANDY RODDICK. After more than a few drinks, the two were seen getting cozy on the VIP bed at Pure nightclub.

7 RUMER WILLIS is quickly making her way through many of Hollywood's hottest men including Orlando Bloom and Josh Hartnett. Her latest beau, TV star of ABC's Wildfire Micah Alberti, has already been given the stamp of approval by Willis' famous trio of parents, Demi Moore, Ashton Kutcher and Bruce Willis.

8 It all started at age 11 when KIRSTEN DUNST had her first kiss with Brad Pitt in Interview With the Vampire—ever since then, Dunst has been unstoppable, locking lips with the likes of Jake Gyllenhaal, Leonardo DiCaprio, Orlando Bloom, Zach Braff and Ryan Gosling. What a tough life!

9 Serial dater MANDY MOORE has doted on long-time loves, including Andy Roddick and Zach Braff—but she surprised everyone when she hooked up with Nicole Richie's ex Adam "DJ AM" Goldstein. The two split after a few months, but Goldstein's recent plane crash survival has reportedly brought the couple back together.

10 Fringe star JOSHUA JACKSON romanced Katie Holmes and Julia Stiles before snagging steady girlfriend Diane Kruger. The pair is rarely seen without showing sickeningly sweet PDAs and rumors say they're headed for the altar. Jackson recently bought a watch Kruger had been eyeing as an engagement promise.

11 Linked to most of Hollywood's leading ladies, JOSH HARTNETT just can't escape from relationship rumors. While in London Hartnett reportedly met up with Mischa Barton at a local club where the two were spotted flirting and were later seen heading off to Hartnett's hotel together.

12 Spanish beauty PENÉLOPE CRUZ has no trouble landing a date in Hollywood. She's been linked to the hottest hunks—from Matt Damon to Tom Cruise to Matthew McConaughey to Adrien Brody. But it's her Vicky Cristina Barcelona co-star, Javier Bardem, who is rumored to be her latest love interest.

13 SIENNA MILLER has cavorted with so many Tinseltown celebrities that even her fans are getting tired of it. Her latest scandalous affair with married actor Balthazar Getty has spawned many threats towards Miller, going as far as vandals writing "slut" outside her London home. Getty has somehow managed to avert the backlash. Odd for a man who cheated on his wife.

14 CAMERON DIAZ's active dating life has included more than a few A-listers like Matt Dillon, Scott Speedman and Gerard Butler. But the blonde cutie and her latest love, gorgeous British model Paul Sculfor, have officially passed the summer fling mark. Could Diaz finally be ready to settle down, or is she still in love with past flame Dillon, as reports are now saying?

15 It's all about loving 'em and leaving 'em for DREW BARRYMORE, who just can't seem to stay in a relationship. She's hooked up (and broken up) with Chris O'Donnell, married (and divorced) Tom Green, and dated (and dumped) Justin Long. Barrymore, 33, now has Gossip Girl star Ed Westwick, 21, in her clutches.

16 GERARD BUTLER's Scottish accent, rock-hard bod and dreamy eyes make him one of Hollywood's hottest bachelors. Beauties like Naomi Campbell, Rosario Dawson, Cameron Diaz and Jennifer Aniston have all been smitten with Scotland's sexiest export.

Incredibly fast showtimes

ARIES (MAR 21 - APR 20)

There's a strong sense of swimming with the financial tide. For the first half of the month, the cash flows in a direction that pleases you, and a promising offer may surface around the 17th. Meanwhile, there's plenty of action on the romance set. Expect exciting re-writes to the closeup scenes on the 27th.

TAURUS (APR 21 - MAY 21)

Take shelter from life's storms this month. The safest refuges are also your favorites: love and money, especially on the 11 to the 13th. But around the 17th, your boss or bank manager may not be so kindly disposed. Focus on long-term planning from the 23rd, when you pretty much set the pace.

VIRGO (AUG. 24 - SEPT. 23)

Everyone around home base is indecisive until the 13 to the 15th. Family commitments made around the 23rd tend to become engraved in stone. A love scene around the 27th leaves you longing for a retake. With a little effort, you'll get a second chance to make your feelings known.

LIBRA (SEPT. 24 - OCT. 23)

You're writing—and re-writing—several love scenes from the 13 to the 15th. Enjoy the dreamy scenario, but don't take anything too seriously. Circle the 17th as a time when you begin to make good financial headway. Just remember to give all that comes your way a reality check before going into production.

AQUARIUS (JAN. 21 - FEB. 18)

It's a go for that big project, with major planets onside. Just make sure that you're given enough control and recognition for your efforts. Bonus: you could land a very nice new job offer or assignment. The passion quotient soars around the 27th, then becomes sweet and serene.

PISCES (FEB. 19 - MAR. 20)

Your head is in the clouds until the 15th, full of wishes and dreams. Come down to earth and put on your running shoes. You'll get a big energy boost on the 27th, enough to put you over any finish line. Romance takes unexpected turns all month, and many promises will be revised.

Star Struck

What the stars have planned for you

GEMINI (MAY 22 - JUNE 21)

The script just won't gel. Time to focus on one main plotline instead of many divergent ones. To work or party? Your best bet is moderation in all things, and don't neglect your health. A very warm and enticing romance could enter the scenario on the 27th.

CANCER (JUNE 22 - JULY 22)

The spotlight is on your love life. If you're looking, you'll like what you see most of the month. Mark the 13 to the 15th when a potential co-star will know all the right lines. It's chaos on the set late in the month. Read between the lines in any scenario presented you by relatives or other loved ones around the 23rd.

LEO (JULY 23 - AUG. 23)

Curb your ad-libs, as an off-the-cuff remark could be more cutting than intended. But do give voice to the creative solutions that hit you from the 17th on. After the 27th, get ready for a cycle of delightful socializing, when the party is wherever you are. Meanwhile, a romance reaches the point of no return.

SCORPIO (OCT. 24 - NOV. 22)

It's another month for make-or-break situations, your forte. They spice the screenplay, and help you make a few breakthroughs until the 17th. Love is sweet, and possibly clandestine, around the 23rd. More promising prospects soon appear, and the 27th could be thrilling.

SAGITTARIUS (NOV. 23 - DEC. 21)

You're all fired up with no particular place to go. Until the 17th it's best to relax as much as you can and catch up on some health-related appointments. Your big break is due around the 27th, and you get star billing just about anywhere you go.

CAPRICORN (DEC. 22 - JAN. 20)

It's best to act as your own agent now. Plan your big move for after mid-month. Around the 27th, a tabloid-worthy romance could begin. Think carefully before getting involved in anything that could lead to gossip and speculation, though.

SCARLETT JOHANSSON

SAGITTARIUS,

NOVEMBER 22, 1984, NEW YORK, NY

Born on the cusp of two signs, Scarlett combines both signs' qualities. A true Sagittarian, she has high ideals and was not afraid to speak her mind during the U.S. election campaigns. She exploited her sexy Scorpio side in provocative ads aimed at motivating young people to vote. Her work schedule is on the light side heading into 2009, as she focuses on wedded bliss with hunky new hubby, Canadian actor Ryan Reynolds. But look for her to hit the big screen in a big way heading into 2010.

Is this it?

Oscar-nominated actor Joaquin Phoenix says bon voyage to Hollywood

HE was always known for being an eccentric type, and often shied away from press events and the paparazzi. But Oscar-nominated actor Joaquin Phoenix made up for it with his gripping and talented performances in the movies—from Gladiator to Walk The Line to Reservation Road.

But despite comments from the entertainment world that pegged Phoenix as one of Hollywood's greatest actors of his generation, Phoenix stunned the movie world with this statement: "I want to take this opportunity...and just talk a little bit about the fact that this will be my last performance as an actor. I'm not doing films anymore."

The 34-year-old star gave no confirmed details on his career plans, but his publicist recently announced that he plans to pursue a music career. Reports are saying that he has been working with British band The Charlatans for some time. Phoenix first learned guitar for his role as Johnny Cash in 2005's Walk the Line, and sources say that it was that movie that inspired him to start a music career.

Recently, in a dramatic send-off, Phoenix wrote the words "Good Bye" (backwards) on his knuckles at an event for what will be his last film, Two Lovers, co-starring Gwyneth Paltrow. "I think it's just moving on. It's rediscovering something else," said Phoenix in an interview with Associated Press. "It's like greener pastures, you know what I mean?" Phoenix continued. "And so, I'm just going to try and like, I'll just be doing the other thing [music]. Hopefully, I will emotionally impact you with that, as well."
