Canadian stars Malin Akerman and Ryan Reynolds join Sandra Bullock in The Proposal. In other news, Charlize Theron joins Viggo Mortensen in The Road and Keanu Reeves, Maggie Gyllenhaal, Alan Arkin and Monica Bellucci have signed on for The Private Lives of Pippa Lee.

Brit in demand

After Britney Spears helped CBS' How I Met Your Mother earn its highest ratings of all time, funny girl Tina Fey says she would like Spears to appear on her sitcom 30 Rock. "We would love to work with Britney," Fey told reporters. "I've worked with her twice on Saturday Night Live and she was very professional and nice."

Sexy Date

A Japanese Sex And The City fan has paid $52,100 for two VIP tickets accompanying Kristin Davis to the New York premiere of the hit show's upcoming movie. The $52,100 raised will go to charity Oxfam. The winning bidder and a friend will have their hair and makeup professionally styled, receive a pair of Jimmy Choo shoes and accompany Davis down the red carpet.

Married!

Beyoncé and her long-time rap mogul beau Jay-Z tied the knot in New York. The New York florist said that 75 boxes of white-and-cream-colored orchids were ordered to decorate the rapper's downtown Manhattan apartment, which made the apartment look like a heavenly palace. A source claims: "It was amazing. Everyone had so much fun. It ended up being a wild party. People partied until 4:30 a.m."

Cameron's new man?

Seems Cameron Diaz is continuing her dating spree. Sources are saying that Diaz has been getting close with fellow actor Gerard Butler. What's the proof? You know, the usual being spotted touching each other, getting cozy and spending the night at The Chateau Marmont Hotel in Los Angeles.

Nicole and Paris: New Feud?

They made up a few years ago after falling out while filming the second season of their reality show, The Simple Life, but word has it that Nicole Richie and Paris Hilton could be on the outs again.

Sources claim that Richie is angry, saying that Paris is trying to "copy" her life. Hilton reportedly wants to follow in her friend's footsteps by having a baby after hooking up with Benji Madden, the brother of Richie's fiancé Joel Madden.

An unsubstantiated source says: "Nicole was already upset when Paris started dating Benji—it all happened too fast for her liking. Then Nicole couldn't go on tour with them because she had to stay home and look after her young daughter Harlow. She is furious Paris is out there gallivanting with her boyfriend and his brother. If Paris gets pregnant, Nicole is going to go ballistic. She thinks Paris copies everything she does." Stay tuned!

Spring Fever

As spring sets in Tinseltown, these Hollywood couples' budding romances are finally in full bloom.

Kate Hudson and Owen Wilson are back in couple mode after taking a break, during which time Wilson dealt with his mental health issues. They recently stepped out publicly again, holding hands for the world to see.

Some wrote off Paris Hilton's new love for Benji Madden as simply the flavor of the week, but Hilton is determined to show the world they're in it for the long haul. "He's been my friend for a couple of years now, and we're really happy," she says.

No couple appears happier than Drew Barrymore and Justin Long—it's written all over their faces. "My cheeks hurt, I'm so happy," Barrymore says. "She makes my cheeks hurt, too," Long adds.

Don't expect Sienna Miller and Rhys Ifans to gush about their rumored engagement. The pair has kept mum about their relationship, but their actions speak louder than words as they have been spotted snuggling together from the UK to Mexico.

Kate Bosworth has been making beautiful music with her model/musician boyfriend James Rousseau. He even wrote a song as a gift for her. "Kate's always been a great inspiration for me in my life," he says.

Matthew McConaughey and his pregnant girlfriend Camila Alves are happy just the way things are. "We don't have plans to get married," McConaughey says. "But I wouldn't be with Camila if I didn't love her and didn't have great dreams for the future."

After her separation from Russell Simmons, Kimora Lee Simmons seems to have found the perfect mate in Djimou Hounsou.

"She's a very beautiful lady, very capable and intelligent and smart with great family values," Hounsou says.

Jonesing for more!

Everyone's favorite archeologist adventurer returns for more globe-trotting action in Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull

H

He became a hero after finding the Ark of the Covenant, solidified himself as one of the greatest adventurers of all time after recovering the Sankara Stones and became a legend after locating the Holy Grail. One thing's for sure, there's no one quite like Indiana Jones.

Now, more than 18 years later, the Indy saga returns in its fourth installment: Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull. With buzz all over the internet and Indy fans hot in anticipation of the film's May release, it's clear the Indy franchise hasn't lost its luster.

For more than 25 years, audiences have been enraptured by the adventures of Indiana Jones. The film trilogy—Raiders of the Lost Ark, Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom and Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade—has won six Oscars. So why make a fourth? “We came back to do [Indy] because we wanted to have fun,” screenwriter George Lucas tells USA Today. “It was really a blast to make. It turned out fantastic.” Director Steven Spielberg adds: “For me, making the latest installment of Indiana Jones was like getting back on the bicycle I hadn’t ridden in 18 years, and I was able to keep my balance without training wheels. It was a real reunion, with the sweetest memories we shared from 1980 through 1989, when we made three Indiana Jones features, and to have Karen Allen back, and to get Harrison back in such great form!”

Of course, the plot for Indy 4 remains tight-lipped. What’s known is that the story is set in 1957, and this time around Dr. Henry Jones Jr. goes up against cold-blooded, Cold War Russians led by Oscar-winning actress Cate Blanchett who plays Agent Irina Spalko. There’s also, of course, a new artifact, “the Crystal Skulls,” which may possibly be ancient alien supercomputers providing ultimate knowledge.

Karen Allen resumes her role as Marion Ravenwood, Indy’s love from the first film, Raiders of the Lost Ark, and current Hollywood “It” boy Shia

Jones pulls out the heavy artillery.

LaBeouf character joins the cast as Mutt Williams. LaBeouf’s character is speculated to be the love child of Indiana and Marion. Rounding out the cast is John Hurt, who plays Abner Ravenwood, Ray Winstone as Mac and Jim Broadbent as a Yale Professor.

With all the excitement brewing, one can’t help but wonder what the appeal was for Ford, who turns 66 this July, to reprise this role after 18 years. Ford admits that after putting his Indy costume back on, things just slid into place. “It’s a very bizarre costume, when you think about it,” Ford tells Vanity Fair. “It’s this guy sporting a whip, who’s off usually for some place really hot in his leather jacket. There’s something about the character that I guess is a good fit for me, because the minute I put the costume on, I recognize the tone that we need, and I feel confident and clear about the character.”

To keep things feeling real, Ford says doing his own stunts was important and that although he’s much older than when he filmed the first three films, in comparison Indy 4 was a piece of cake. “In the first one, I tore the A.C.L. in my left leg and then, in the second one, I ended up with a bad back injury and had to have surgery in the middle of filming,” he admits to Vanity Fair. “But in this one, I was pretty much uninjured.”

Ford continues: “I always wanted to make sure the audience understood the pain so that they could participate and enjoy the triumph. That was always a very big part of my ambition for the character, to allow the audience to see his fear, allow the audience to have a chance to see him work his way through the problem, not to be one of those characters that you know is going to succeed. I guess you know that Indiana Jones is finally going to succeed, but I think you don’t know how many bumps he’s going to take before it happens.”

We’ll have to wait with bated breath to find out what happens in the latest Indy adventure, and the plot secrecy only makes things more alluring. Even LaBeouf doesn’t know what to really expect. “I’m just as anxious as you guys are. I haven’t seen anything,” he tells IGN.com. “[Spielberg’s] just secretive with certain people. He’s locked in a room, and then George [Lucas] gets his cut. It’s not like, ‘Hey Shia it’s viewing time!’ I’ll see it when the premiere happens.” ■

—Toni-Marie Ippolito

Ford and LaBeouf stand off against the Ruskies.

INDY Recap!

It's been over 18 years since Indiana Jones hit the big screen. Here's a recap of his past adventures.

Raiders of the Lost Ark (1981)

Stars: Harrison Ford, Karen Allen, Paul Freeman, Ronald Lacey, John Rhys-Davies, Denholm Elliott

Set in 1936, archaeologist/adventurer Dr. Henry "Indiana" Jones finds himself in the middle of a Nazi plot to use the mysterious powers of the Ark of the Covenant to gain world power. Jones scours the world with cohort, Marion Ravenwood (Allen), to seek out the ancient Ark of the Covenant, said to contain the remnants of the Ten Commandments, before his Nazi adversaries find it and harness its unknown powers for evil ends.

MAIN ARTIFACT: Jewish Ark of the Covenant that once held the Ten Commandments

Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom (1984)

Stars: Harrison Ford, Kate Capshaw, Jonathan Ke Quan, Dan Aykroyd

Indiana Jones travels across, around and beneath the earth to find a precious gem with help from young orphan Short Round (Quan Ke Huy) and a sultry nightclub singer (Capshaw). Full of thrills and chases, including a classic roller coaster ride through a mineshaft.

MAIN ARTIFACT: The Sankara Stones, three sacred Hindu stones

Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade (1989)

Stars: Harrison Ford, Sean Connery, Denholm Elliott, Alison Doody, John Rhys-Davies, River Phoenix

This saga begins with an introduction to a younger Indy (played by the late Phoenix), who gives insight into the roots of his taste for adventure, fear of snakes, and his interest in historical artifacts. Flash forward to 1938 and Mr. Jones is drawn away from his teaching duties after an art collector approaches him with a proposition to find the Holy Grail. Circumstances reveal that Jones' father, Dr. Henry Jones (Connery) has disappeared while in search of the cup. The search for the grail proves to be a dangerous quest, and its discovery may prove fatal for all those who seek it.

MAIN ARTIFACT: Legendary Christian sacred vessel, the Holy Grail, the cup Jesus used at the Last Supper

Sex goes Big

Carrie, Samantha, Miranda and Charlotte return for the movie version of the popular TV show that made them instant icons

SOME people can't hardly wait for Sex and the City: The Movie to hit theaters. For instance, take the avid Japanese fan who recently shelled out over $52,000 to walk the red carpet premiere with one of the film's stars, Kristin Davis. Now that's anticipation.

After a four-year hiatus since its hugely successful six-year run on television, Sex and the City has become one of the most eagerly anticipated films of 2008. Now, with its release quickly approaching, the wait will soon be over.

So what can fans expect? What are the girls up to now? Is Samantha Jones still as promiscuous as ever? Will Carrie Bradshaw finally marry long-time beau Mr. Big? With top-secret closed film sets and a tight-lipped cast, the answers to those questions have been hard to come by.

Talk of a big-screen version of Sex and the City actually began during the filming of the series' final episode in Paris between star Sarah Jessica Parker and series executive producer Michael Patrick King.

Excited by the notion, King quickly put together a plot outline. "It was a romp," recalled Parker in W magazine. "It reminded me of one of those Bob Hope-

Bing Crosby buddy movies." From there, the wheels were in motion but the film would hit a few speed bumps.

First, King and Parker would have to convince co-stars Kristin Davis, Cynthia Nixon and Kim Cattrall to return. Many gossip magazines published stories about wobbly contract negotiations and rumors of tension, particularly regarding Cattrall's demands for more control, but they

“The movie is so packed and something major happens that fundamentally changes who she is.”

Parker says about her character Carrie would quickly be put to rest. “I really am so flattered because I feel that people actually do miss the show and the characters,” Cattrall told London's Heart Radio. “I thought that the series really ended so well and to reopen it, it would have to be a great script.”

By 2006, the script was finally ready and the quartet came back together to film in Manhattan. “It was a dream,”

Will Carrie and Big get married?

Samantha, Carrie, Miranda and Charlotte show their girl power

Parker told Life & Style. “When Chris Noth (who plays Mr. Big aka John James Preston) and I started the first day on set, I really realized, ‘My God, I’m Carrie again!’”

So just who are the women of Sex and the City? Based on author Candace Bushnell's book of the same name, the TV show looks at the life of writer Carrie Bradshaw and her best friends, Samantha Jones (Cattrall), Miranda Hobbes (Nixon) and Charlotte York Goldenblatt (Davis) living in the Big Apple.

As they get together, the women discuss their desires and love lives in a frank and often-hilarious manner. “We painted this portrait of the city with all this potential and romance and (Carrie's) living it,” Parker told Star. “But she's also flawed and curious about people and has deep friendships.”

With Sex and the City: The Movie, we catch up with Carrie and her friends (and a new character played by Oscar-winning actress Jennifer Hudson who plays Carrie's assistant) four years after the series finale and find that each of them has encountered new challenges. For Carrie, that primarily involves her career and her relationship with the handsome Mr. Big. “It's also about how when you're grown-up, your friends can't fix everything for you,” Parker told Star. “The movie is so packed, and something major happens that fundamentally changes who she is.”

As for what that “something” is (Will Carrie and Big marry? Will she get jilted at the alter?), you'll have to wait to find out. On that note, Parker tells Variety: “It's now been 10 years that they've been in a relationship. There's a lot more trust and potential, so it only adds to what happens.” She adds to Life & Style: “If we did our job, I think it's really going to surprise people.”

Now, how's that for anticipation?

Return to Narnia

The Pevensie children return for more adventure, along with a new prince, in
The Chronicles of Narnia: Prince Caspian

PETER, Susan, Edmund and Lucy Pevensie have been away from Narnia for only a year. But when they return in The Chronicles of Narnia: Prince Caspian, they find that more than a thousand years have passed. In that time, the evil King Miraz has seized control of the throne and the siblings make it their mission to help the rightful heir, Prince Caspian, overthrow the corrupt Miraz. The amazing creatures and characters of Narnia, of course, assist them.

Based on the second of C.S. Lewis' classic Narnia series, Prince Caspian will ratchet up the same excitement and effects of the first film, The Lion, The Witch and the Wardrobe, but promises to be bigger, deeper and darker, even going so far as to create a new action sequence not in the original book.

Of course, all the well-known characters are in place. The original cast, including William Moseley, Anna Popplewell, Skandar Keynes and Georgie Henley will play characters Peter, Susan, Edmund and Lucy Pevensie respectively. Liam Neeson returns as the voice of Aslan, the wise lion.

Joining the cast is Ben Barnes as Prince Caspian. Although still relatively unknown, the 26-year-old Barnes is poised to become somewhat of a heartthrob. Preview audiences are already swooning over the Brit's swashbuckling abilities and brooding good looks.

But Narnia's gain was the National Theatre of England's loss. Barnes abruptly left the London production of The History Boys when he got the part of Caspian and the Londoners were none too pleased about it. Nevertheless, Barnes, who read the Narnia books as a child, felt this opportunity was too good to pass up. He subsequently spent eight weeks stunt training and horseback riding in New Zealand to prep for the role and, quite frankly, he's totally jazzed about the movie.

He recently told RottenTomatoes.com that while the film will be a terrific "summer action movie," it's character-driven as well. "You have to spend the time getting the story right because as amazing as the special effects might be, if you don't (care) about the characters then your film won't work," Barnes says. "Caspian's fairly well layered, I think. He's an orphan whose father has been killed by his uncle and he's ambivalent about being a leader. He really is on the threshold of manhood and it's quite cathartic; he has to fight his own people."

Barnes also speaks highly of director Andrew Adamson (who also helmed the first movie), saying that he "has this extraordinary ability to focus on minute details and the vastness of the Narnia story at the same time."

As for Adamson, he recently summed up the decision to hire Barnes quite succinctly to Empire magazine. "Why did I choose Ben as Caspian? Well, I'm sure you'll see his charm."

Robert Downey Jr. dives into the Marvel world as Iron Man

HOT on the heels of comic book adaptation giants such as Spider-Man, Batman and Superman comes Iron Man. Anyone who's read the comics knows that Iron Man, aka Tony Stark, is a genius. He entered the prestigious Massachusetts Institute of Technology at 15 and graduated at the top of his class. After his parents died in an accident, he inherited the family's billion dollar business, Stark Industries. Kidnapped by an enemy who wants him to build a devastating weapon, Stark instead builds a high-tech suit of armor and escapes. He soon finds that Iron Man is needed to protect the world when he uncovers a sinister plot with global implications.

Robert Downey Jr. spent five days a week weight training and learning martial arts to get into the kind of physical shape he needed to accurately portray a superhero. He acknowledged he felt pressure playing the role because of the legions of fans who have their own ideas about the character from reading the books. However, he admitted during an appearance at Comic-Con in San Diego that he "became a geek for Iron Man myself."

Director Jon Favreau told Rottentomatoes.com that he wants the film to appeal to a wide audience, not just people who are already fans of the comic books. "For this thing to work, it has to attract people who don't know anything about the film or the character," he said. "But for the fans, we wanted to have enough stuff happening in there that it seems like we were staying true to [the character]."

There's been talk of various Marvel movie characters linking together in comic films, and crossovers have already begun, with Downey Jr. making a cameo appearance as Tony Stark in The Incredible Hulk, which opens just a month after Iron Man. Downey Jr. talked to MTV about his appearance in the Hulk movie: "We were just cross-pollinating our superheroes. It happens to be a scene where I basically approach [William Hurt's character, General Ross], and we may be considering going into some sort of limited partnership together. I don't want to give too much away, but he's in disrepair at the time I find him."

There's already talk of Iron Man sequels. Downey Jr. says the character Mandarin would be a good addition for a sequel, calling him "Tony Stark's greatest nemesis."

Known for goofy roles and playing practical jokes on his celebrity friends, Ashton Kutcher isn't an obvious heartthrob. But this actor and producer started his career as a male model. He got his big break playing "himbo" Kelso on That '70s Show. He's since appeared on the big screen in comedies such as Dude, Where's my Car? and Just Married, and dramas such as The Guardian. This spring he stars in What Happens in Vegas opposite Cameron Diaz, playing strangers who wake up to find themselves married after a crazy night in Sin City. Kutcher has dated his share of Hollywood beauties, including former co-star Brittany Murphy. When he started dating Demi Moore in 2003, some believed it was just a publicity stunt, but five years later, they're happily married and still going strong.

1 MONET MAZUR may not be a household name but she's shared the screen with big stars in movies like Monster-in-Law and Just Married, where she met Kutcher. The pair was linked before he started dating his other Just Married co-star Brittany Murphy. Mazur has also dated Josh Hartnett, Adrien Brody and Dave Navarro.

2 After walking the Victoria's Secret catwalk and gracing the pages of magazines as the face of Revlon, model RHEA DURHAM has been taking time off to raise her two children with longtime love Mark Wahlberg. Durham has previously been linked to Kutcher, Ben Stiller and Stephen Dorff.

3 Actress ASHLEY SCOTT is best known for her television roles in Jericho, Dark Angel and Birds of Prey. She's also graced the big screen in films like Into the Blue and Artificial Intelligence: AI. But who knew she's been involved with some of Hollywood's hottest actors? Her dating history includes Kutcher, Leonardo DiCaprio and Kiefer Sutherland.

4 When it comes to romancing leading men, DEMI MOORE is an expert. Not only has she been linked to everyone from Leonardo DiCaprio to Colin Farrell to Owen Wilson, but she's also managed to maintain a friendship with ex-husband Bruce Willis. Moore married Kutcher in a Kabbalist ceremony in 2005, creating one big, happy family.

5 BRITTANY MURPHY's clearly a big fan of on-set romance. She and Kutcher started dating after meeting on the set of Just Married. She was linked to rapper Eminem when they starred in 8 Mile, and was once engaged to a production assistant she met while filming Little Black Book. She's now happily married to screenwriter Simon Monjack.

6 JOSH HARTNETT appears to be on a dating rampage since his break-up with Scarlett Johansson. The rumor mill was buzzing when he was seen getting cozy with popstar Rihanna. He's also been linked to Sienna Miller, Kirsten Dunst, Helena Christensen and even Rumer Willis. Recently, he's been dating British singer Nadine Coyle of Girls Aloud.

7 No one appreciates beauty quite like LEONARDO DICAPRIO. While he's romanced his share of Hollywood starlets (reportedly Cameron Diaz, Sienna Miller and Jessica Simpson), he's a sucker for international supermodels. He dated Brazilian beauty Gisele Bündchen for five years before moving on to Israeli stunner Bar Refaeli.

8 After dating some of the most talked about ladies in Tinseltown including Angelina Jolie, Britney Spears and Lindsay Lohan, COLIN FARRELL has opted for lower profile romances. He dated Irish student Muireann McDonnell last year and now he's reportedly dating a security executive named Victoria Christian.

9 Marriage rumors ran wild when SCARLETT JOHANSSON was recently seen shopping for wedding dresses. But alas, it was someone else's wedding, not hers with boyfriend Ryan Reynolds. Johansson was previously in a serious relationship with Josh Hartnett, and not so serious ones with Justin Timberlake, Jared Leto and Benicio Del Toro.

10 When a hot Hollywood couple is together for a while, it's only natural that engagement rumors swirl. Such is the case for REESE WITHERSPOON and boyfriend Jake Gyllenhaal. The pair, together for a year now, are said to have gotten engaged secretly on their trip to Rome last October. Witherspoon was previously married to Ryan Phillippe.

11 Recently rehabbed starlet KIRSTEN DUNST has had her share of Hollywood romances. Since ending a long-term relationship with Jake Gyllenhaal in 2004, she's been linked to several notorious Hollywood players including Zach Braff, Leonardo DiCaprio, Adrian Grenier, rockers Fabrizio Moretti and Johnny Borrell, and Josh Hartnett.

12 For a while, BRITNEY SPEARS was constantly accompanied by her "manager" Sam Lufti and paparazzo boyfriend Adnan Ghalib. But it was unclear whether she and Lufti were involved romantically or whether the relationship with Ghalib (who is married) was sincere. Things seemed a lot less confusing when she was married to Kevin Federline or dating Justin Timberlake.

13 JAKE GYLLENHAAL has been quietly enjoying the company of his rumored fiancée Reese Witherspoon and her two children. After dating Kirsten Dunst for two years, Gyllenhaal was reportedly looking for someone who better suited his quiet lifestyle. Gyllenhaal had also previously dated musician Jenny Lewis and Natalie Portman.

14 DREW BARRYMORE hasn't always been lucky in love. Her marriages to bar owner Jeremy Thomas and to Canadian comedian Tom Green ended in divorce. She was then involved with The Strokes' drummer Fabrizio Moretti and linked to Spike Jonze and Zach Braff. But things are definitely looking up, as she and boyfriend Justin Long have been spreading their happiness all over Hollywood.

15 It's unlikely you'll find NATALIE PORTMAN steaming up the pages of the tabloids with scandalous behavior. She quietly dated Mexican actor Gael García Bernal and was also linked to Jake Gyllenhaal. She's now settled into a relationship with model and fashion designer Nathan Bogle.

Aries (MAR. 21 – APR. 20)

Now is the time for all good Rams to hit their marks. Make your pitch, send out the resume and ask for a promotion, whatever will get you to the next level. Financial uncertainty still lurks in the wings, but by mid-month you've got it under control. Follow your instincts around the 20th, especially regarding a romantic co-star.

Taurus (APR. 21 – MAY 21)

Yes, you've finally got the bull by the horns—but now what? Much of the scenario is still a work in progress, but you make excellent gains this month. Your insight is especially keen around the 14th. Later, your passion finds a more sensual outlet when an important question receives a favorable reply.

Gemini (MAY 22 – JUNE 21)

You're ready to kick up your heels. Some fun and frolic is refreshing, and helps open new avenues of communication with your workmates. Mid-month, you're coming to the aid of a close friend. Remember to respect confidences, though. The 25th looks optimal for a big-screen-worthy close-up or two.

Cancer (JUNE 22 – JULY 22)

Time for a clean sweep! Eliminate nagging issues from the past as well as any people or situations that just aren't necessary. Mid-month, your focus is on cheering up someone close. By the 28th, you're dreamy and giddy with spring.

Leo (JULY 23 – AUG. 23)

Everyone else has spring fever, yet your nose is pressed squarely to the grindstone. Don't worry, your time to gather rosebuds comes as soon as the 9th. From then on, you're center stage and on everyone's A-list. Month's end is sweet and romantic.

Virgo (AUG. 24 – SEPT. 23)

The pace quickens this month, with fresh opportunities galore. Rely on your famous discrimination to know which are worth following up. Life's highway takes some interesting twists and turns from the 20th on. Going along for the ride leads to eye-opening experiences. Make a romantic pit stop on the 26th.

Libra (SEPT. 24 – OCT. 23)

You and a significant other certainly prove the truth of the old saying, Tra-la-la. Focus on self-improvement mid-month. Any plan works better for you à deux. You contemplate setting up a home office or taking work home with you on the 20th. Resist signing important documents after the 26th.

Scorpio (OCT. 24 – NOV. 22)

You focus on the state of your union. You're content with the current situation, but want to fine-tune the script. From the 9th on, you focus on forging ahead. Lift the secrecy and make your big ambitions known. Late in the month, rather than fretting about the slower pace, simply take time to smell the flowers.

Sagittarius (NOV. 23 – DEC. 21)

Your energy and enthusiasm return with a vengeance. The time is ripe to start something new. Insist on greater recognition, but get it in writing before the 26th. Crunch some numbers mid-month to see if you really can afford that big vacation. You and a partner fall out over finances, but all is well by the 19th.

Capricorn (DEC. 22 – JAN. 20)

Goal-oriented, you can sometimes run roughshod over others to get to the posts. Try a little more finesse and teamwork from the 9th on. You'll find your quiet charm works in your favor. Take a break from the routine around the 23rd, preferably around home base.

Aquarius (JAN. 21 – FEB. 18)

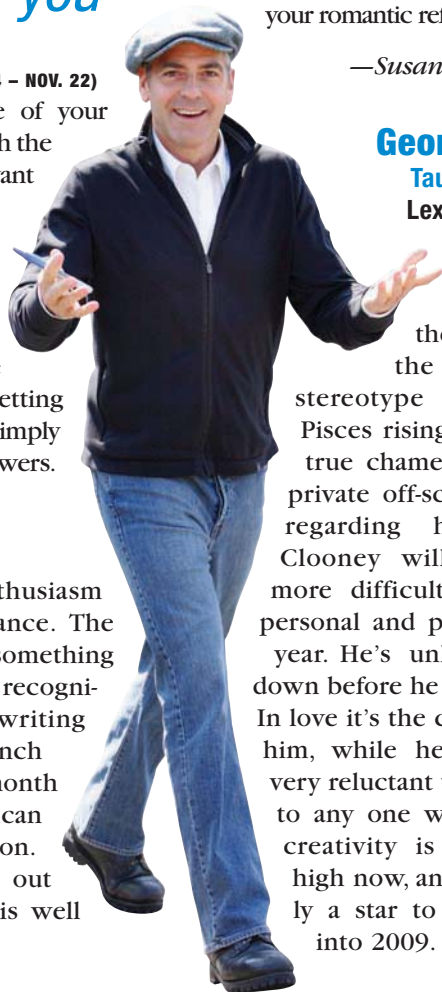

You're in a passionate frame of mind from the 9th on. It could lead to an interesting, if challenging, new rapport. By the 18th, you're more tempted than usual to stray off the beaten track. By the 26th, the path of least resistance is best, and going with the flow pays off.

Pisces (FEB. 19 – MAR. 20)

Busy, busy, busy—yet you seem to be going nowhere? Relax. It's just a bout of spring fever. Channel your restlessness into a creative or charitable project around the 11th and the 12th. Good news comes your way on the 21st. Your home is your romantic refuge on the 25th.

George Clooney Taurus, May 6, 1961 Lexington, Kentucky

George Clooney is as smooth as they come. He fits the Taurus male stereotype to a "T." With Pisces rising, this actor is a true chameleon. Extremely private off-screen, especially regarding his love life, Clooney will find it even more difficult to juggle his personal and private lives this year. He's unlikely to settle down before he hits the Big 5-0. In love it's the chase that thrills him, while he remains very, very reluctant to give his heart to any one woman. George's creativity is at an all-time high now, and he's definitely a star to watch heading into 2009.

Knot or not?

GEORGE CLOONEY has recently gone from Hollywood's most notorious bachelor to potentially engaged. Clooney's been single for years and always seemed content playing the field, dating actresses, models and anyone else that captured his interest. But when Clooney brought his current girlfriend, Sarah Larson, as his date to the Academy Awards, everyone was buzzing that he has finally settled down. It was the first time the A-lister ever brought a date to Hollywood's big night.

Recently, the engagement rumors have been flying. A restaurant worker in Laglio, Italy where Clooney owns a villa, was quoted as saying, "They haven't made any announcement yet, but there are people in this town who know more than me. They say the couple are already engaged."

Reports surfaced that Clooney and Larson, whom he met while she was working as a VIP hostess in Vegas, were planning on getting married in Italy this summer. Clooney was quick to deny the rumors, but with Larson constantly on his arm, it seems he's potentially given up the playboy lifestyle for good.

Clooney isn't the only celeb at the center of engagement rumors. It's said that Reese Witherspoon is engaged to Jake Gyllenhaal, Sienna Miller is supposedly engaged to Rhys Ifans and Jessica Simpson is rumored to be settling down with quarterback beau Tony Romo. The reigning king and queen of engagement rumors are Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie, who, according to the tabloids, have been engaged numerous times despite the fact that they've stated they won't marry until it's legal for all Americans to do so.
